LAKE WALES, FLORIDA

CULTURE OF WATER LILIES

Partly fill small pools or tubs with 6 or 8 inches of soil, using about one-third well rotted manure. After planting the Water Lilies, place a couple of inches of sand or gravel on top of the dirt (to keep water clean), and add the water. When the plants are first placed in the pool, it is advisable, when possible, only to add a few inches of water over the soil level, as this allows the sun rays to penetrate and reach the young plants, thus letting them take hold more easily. After they have been in a short time add the balance of the water.

TANK OR WASH TUB

It is not necessary to have a cement pool to have a Water Garden. A wash tub can be sunk in the ground, or if a larger one is desired a galvanized tank can be quickly made at any Tin Shop. Twelve to fifteen inches deep will do nicely. For those not permanently located, this kind of pool has its advantages.

QUALITY AND GUARANTEE

Realizing the need of a sturdier and more mature Tropical Water Lily Plant, CARLETON CLUB, INC., are this year GUARANTEEING ALL THEIR DAY BLOOMING TROPICALS TO BE IN BUD WHEN SHIPPED.

This makes the Tropical Water Lilies as easy to raise as the Hardy varieties. It also assures you of BLOOM, as soon as they are planted, instead of having to wait weeks, for a frail little plant to take hold and reach sufficient size to bloom.

Trade Discount 40 Per Cent on all except collections.
Or 50 Per Cent Discount If Season's Orders total more than $60 net.

No packing charge if lilies are shipped to Dealers. If we ship direct to your customers, under your label, there is a charge of 20c for the first lily and 15c for each additional.

Beauty of the Tropical Water Lily As a Cut Flower

All who are familiar with the beauty of the TROPICAL WATER LILY, in the Water Garden, concede its superiority, there, over the old time Hardy Varieties, but few have tried these Tropical lilies as cut flowers. Their long stiff stems make them ideal for display in a tall vase; two or three of these exquisite blooms will cause more enthusiastic admiration than several dozen roses. These Tropical blooms from CARLETON CLUB pools have been shipped, during the winter season, to one of the foremost Florists of New York City, and retailed by them for $2.50 apiece. If a little parafin wax is dropped in the center of the open flower, it will not close at night, and will often last 4 or 5 days.
